American Ranch Horse Association Announces the Return of the 2027 World Show

Cloverdale, Indiana — The American Ranch Horse Association (ARHA) is proud to announce the highly anticipated return of the ARHA World Show in 2027. After a two-year hiatus, preparations are officially underway for one of the association's most celebrated events.

Members and participants are encouraged to mark their calendars for mid-June 2027, when the World Show is set to take place at the renowned C Bar C Expo Center in Cloverdale, Indiana. This cherished venue has long been a cornerstone of ARHA tradition, hosting countless memorable moments for competitors, families, and fans alike.

The 2027 World Show represents more than just a return—it signals a renewed commitment to excellence, community, and the western ranch horse lifestyle. Attendees can look forward to premier competition, meaningful connections, and a vibrant atmosphere that celebrates the spirit of the ARHA.

While final details are still being confirmed, the association is dedicated to delivering an event that exceeds expectations and creates lasting memories for all involved. Additional information, including official dates, entry details, and event highlights, will be released in the coming months.

The American Ranch Horse Association extends its sincere appreciation to its members for their continued support and enthusiasm. The countdown to 2027 has begun, and the future of the ARHA World Show is brighter than ever.
